Announcing a new program offering as part of the FCMA Leadership Academy
Leading A Multi-Generational Workforce

FCMA is very excited to announce a new training program as part of our Leadership Academy, Leading A Multi-Generational Workforce. Target audiences are Team Leads, Supervisors and Managers who are responsible for communicating with and leading a workforce composed of employees representing multiple generation age groups.

The course is intended to promote understanding of the different generations present in our workplace today as well as the characteristics of these generations, and as such, to help in developing a personal work plan to address specific job-related multi-generational workforce challenges. The course curriculum is designed to help participants identify the problems resulting from poor leadership of a multi-generational workforce, to learn new approaches that can help bridge generational gaps and create a more integrated and communicative workforce, and to provide new tools and techniques that can be applied while leading a multi-generational workforce.

This new offering from FCMA includes four 90-minute interactive virtual class sessions conducted every 2-weeks by Dynamic Corporate Solutions, Inc., and will run from 8:30 AM – 10:00 AM. Tuition cost is $550 per student all-inclusive for FCMA members and $715 for non-members.

The program schedule is as follows:

- Session 1—Thursday, September 16
- Session 2—Thursday, September 30
- Session 3—Thursday, October 14
- Session 4—Thursday, October 28
